SOURCES FOR HEALTH INSTRUCTION MATERIALS.

A list of organizations, publications, etc., supplementing the information provided in the following article: Steinhaus, A. H. and Fant, K. E. Sources of supplementary materials for health instruction, American Journal of Public Health, 1949, 39: 1407-1416.

Compiled by Miriam Hawkins

Since the information in the article by Steinhaus and Fant has proved useful in answering requests from school children and laymen who need the type of information provided in pamphlets distributed by many organizations, this supplement has been prepared to furnish information about additional agencies and the material they distribute.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers who came to the New World in search of a better life. They found a land of opportunity, but also a land of challenge. The early years were marked by conflict and struggle, as the settlers fought to establish a new society. Over time, the United States grew from a small colony into a powerful nation. It fought wars, both at home and abroad, and emerged as a leader in the world. The story of the United States is a story of the American dream, of the pursuit of happiness and freedom. It is a story that continues to inspire and challenge us today.

11. "Technical Publications" appears in most issues of Public Health Reports and lists all new Public Health Service publications and selected new publications on health prepared by other Federal Government agencies. Includes publications prepared for the layman.
12. U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Reading on cancer: an annotated bibliography. (Public Health Bibliography Series no. 14) 1955.
Books, pamphlets, reports, and articles in popular periodicals and professional journals are included. Major emphasis is given to information from nontechnical sources. A section entitled "Related Reading" lists references on such subjects as atomic energy, medical research, popular science and science-health careers. After each entry the letter "E", "M", or "D" appears, showing whether the material is easy, moderately difficult or difficult. Sources of cancer information are given.
13. U. S. Public Health Service. Mental health pamphlets and reprints available for distribution. (Public Health Bibliography Series no. 2). 1950.
Includes materials prepared and distributed by more than 100 Federal, State, and voluntary organizations. In the Introduction the statement is made that the National Institute of Mental Health will keep listings current.
14. Vertical file index; a subject and title index to selected pamphlet material. New York, H. W. Wilson Company. (Formerly Vertical file service catalog.) Published monthly. Cumulated annually.
15. Waldo, M. and Mickelson, J. M. Sources of free and inexpensive materials in health education. rev. ed. 4 p. 1954. The authors, Curriculum Laboratory, Temple University.
